Target Audience

Calling all faculty, seasoned, new, and anywhere in between.

Description

This program is the first of two live webinars that will be offered in the 2024 Faculty Development series. These programs were developed based on the 2023 participant feedback and topic request! In this first program, we will dive into the common topic of incivility among students and nurses in the academic and clinical practice settings. Participants will recognize and develop a plan to address these behaviors to ensure their personal safety as well as the patient's safety. An impactful plan to lessen the negative behaviors within the healthcare environment will be a main focus for discussion.

Outcome

Participants will self-assess that they gained knowledge related to the identification and management of incivility in classroom and clinical settings.
